ABSTRACT
Language is the method of human communication, either spoken or written, consisting of the use of words in a structured and conventional way. It is a system of communication used by a particular country or community. Language is important element in communication. Communication is a process of exchanging information, idea, suggestion between two parties- sender and receiver. Languages are human system of communication that uses arbitrary signals, such as voice sound, gestures, or written symbols. Any language whether it is English or any other is only and only the medium through which communication happens. Words are the vehicles on which our thoughts sit and travel from sender to receiver. Hence, whether English, Hindi, Spanish or French, language plays the role of a medium only in the process of communication. As we human beings communicate with each other’s in different languages such as English, Urdu, French, Punjabi and Arabic etc. Similarly to communicate with the computers we have to use specific languages.
